Lessons Learned and New Best Practices in Nuclear D&D

It is understood that government and business organizations from different functions, geographies and countries can learn much from each other by sharing insights on lessons-learned and business best practices.

At this year's Nuclear Energy Insider D&D Supply Chain Conference we expect a diverse mix of public and private sector leaders representing the U.S., UK, Canada and several other countries. We are seeking to take greater advantage of this unique gathering by holding a small-group discussion to facilitate networking and experience sharing.

We invite you to join us for this by-invitation meeting, dinner and Roundtable.

Each participant is asked to prepare a 5-7 minute summary of at least one key learning or best practice from your organization's experience over recent months to be shared with others.

This is an evening session following Day 1 of the Nuclear Energy Insider D&D Supply Chain Conference from 6:30—8:30 pm at the Hilton Charlotte Center City.

The meeting will include dinner, briefings, and moderated discussions. We expect to limit the Roundtable to 10-15 participants.

Following an initial briefing on the meeting concept, each participant will share one or more of their recent lessons-learned or best practices. Join us for these most insightful and valuable discussions!

Roundtable Approach

- Facilitator introduction and statement of purpose for the meeting.
- Each participant to make a 1-2 minute personal introduction including your job role, organization, background and specialty.
- What have been some of your organization's biggest challenges and successes over recent months?
- Please share milestones or experiences that resulted in lessons to be applied on future initiatives.
- Highlight 1-2 significant lessons learned that has developed out of your recent experiences or challenges.
- Highlight any new best practice your organization established that you think may benefit others.
- Please share details of this lesson-learned or best practice.
- Each participant has approximately 7 minutes total speaking time.
